Interlocuteur 1 (00:00)

Good morning, moncerero. How are you doing today?

Interlocuteur 2 (00:04)

I am not saying I'm trying it in here. I don't know. I'm just busy and I'm tired.

Interlocuteur 1 (00:10)

Ok, sure. Well, I bring you here today to do you a little interview about languages. And you know, culture and so I'm going to ask you through questionnaire, how picandrias and say, you know, so that's begin.

Interlocuteur 1 (00:27)

What languages do you speak?

Interlocuteur 2 (00:33)

Already? I see French, which is the official language in Deborah, and I also understand something and Obama, because this heart, the language of my ethnic groups. I also speak English because I learned school and Spanish.

Interlocuteur 1 (00:48)

Very interesting. Which language did you learn first?

Interlocuteur 2 (00:52)

Alright, so at first, the island French. Because it's the language we use in school and daily life. In government, but growing up, I also heard some find a bomb by lafamie environment.

Interlocuteur 2 (01:10)

I'm just practicing it's sometimes, so I'm not so ready a profession.

Interlocuteur 1 (01:15)

Akichire and an Iraq crown salein language.

Interlocuteur 2 (01:20)

Yes, I'm currently improving in relation in Spanish. I practice it at school and sometimes by listening to podcasts or watching videos.

Interlocuteur 1 (01:31)

Fairy did what the artist language you've tried to learn

Interlocuteur 2 (01:36)

I think it's Maybe German, I tried to learn a German that I didn't

Interlocuteur 1 (01:46)

Yeah, yeah. Germany is a very hard language. Alright.

Interlocuteur 1 (01:52)

And how did you learn your second language Spanish?

Interlocuteur 2 (01:59)

I am mainly learned my second language Spanish at school with my teachers. But also by watching videos or movies, listening to music and passing and practicing speaking

Interlocuteur 1 (02:12)

Alright, driving hard-working girl. And so I'm in your methods to learn, and those languages do prefer learning through apps, classes or real life convers.

Interlocuteur 2 (02:24)

I think real life conditions are the best. Because I practice naturally in improv. The organization and cafes, so it's very good.

Interlocuteur 1 (02:35)

Olaf's art. And have you ever forgotten a language? You also hear

Interlocuteur 2 (02:42)

A lot pretty forgotten but sometimes I forget some words from our abandon because I don't speak them every day.

Interlocuteur 1 (02:49)

Alright. And do you think languages share the way people think?

Interlocuteur 2 (02:54)

Yes, I think there's the weight because every language has its own culture, expression and way of saying the world.

Interlocuteur 1 (03:04)

I was very true, and is there a language you find? Especially beautiful in trust?

Interlocuteur 2 (03:10)

Yeah, I find a magnitude. And I'm a very beautiful, white sign of romba, because it's very interesting, it's a part of my teacher identity and it connects me to my family and tradition.

Interlocuteur 1 (03:22)

I want to okay and Arthur's any word in another language. I don't exist in your own

Interlocuteur 2 (03:30)

Yes, I think there are many words that don't really exist in other languages. For example, in the glomba somewhat expressed from my relationship or respect in every specific way and it's difficult to translate them exactly into French or English, and it's also because it's like a different certification that we cannot interpret in terms of languages like we can have names names, family names in government have some simplification that we can really translate in French or in

Interlocuteur 1 (04:06)

Okay? Okay? Especially with some expression, yeah.

Interlocuteur 1 (04:10)

And have you ever used a foreign language while traveling?

Interlocuteur 2 (04:16)

Yes, when I travel or meet people from other countries, I sometimes use English only. I thought that so. Yes, when I travel or meet people from other countries, I sometimes use English to communicate because it's an international language.

Interlocuteur 2 (04:37)

You know, it benefits.

Interlocuteur 1 (04:38)

Yeah, very true facts facts. Adam, have you ever added funny understanding because of the language?

Interlocuteur 2 (04:49)

And yeah, sometimes when speaking English, sometimes when speaking English, I confuse some words or pronounce them incorrectly, like and right now, y'all hearing me. But I make some mistake when I'm f so yeah, and people love. Because it's changed the meaning and it can be a little embarrassing but it's funny, you know, I'm just learning.

Interlocuteur 2 (05:09)

It's

Interlocuteur 1 (05:10)

Yeah, every note, no one is perfect. So, and if you call instantly learn any language, which one will you depict?

Interlocuteur 2 (05:20)

If I could instantly learn a language, I think I will choose Spanish or Mandarin Chinese. Because it's a really beautiful language, and I love it. So and for the memory journeys, I heard it on main year Korean chapters.

Interlocuteur 1 (05:42)

Look at sure, and last question. Do you have a favorite word in any language?

Interlocuteur 2 (05:49)

Oh, I see. The scription on some interview from actors, and I really hope someone has in discussion. So I can say that my favorite words in English is probably amazing.

Interlocuteur 2 (06:05)

I know, just the virus. People say

Interlocuteur 1 (06:08)

Okay.

Moncerya 2 (06:10)

You know, it's so cool if I can say

Bryan

Look at your and what about in the phone?

Monceyra

And so oh I can say And it's really hard because, you know, in a family, they use some words that aren't really good. It's like..

Bryan

Insults, you can say it's a safe place. And why does it mean?

Monceyra.

I don't I think people who heard the podcast. If they are from who I'm not so going to translate it?

Bryan

Okay, share, if you guys listen to this, do you go translate your home with your parents?
Okay, sure, well. Thank you for your time on Monceyra and see you later in this podcast.
